

RECONCEPTUALIZING SUSTAINABILITY: CRITICAL PERSPECTIVES FOR INTERNATIONAL ECONOMIC LAW REFORM

The workshop aims to facilitate a critical dialogue on the reconceptualization of sustainability in international economic law, bringing together perspectives that have been underrepresented in mainstream debates. It seeks not only to question how sustainability has been framed within existing trade and investment regimes, but also to challenge the assumptions that underpin these regimes themselves. Through discussions on the developmental goals of the Global South, the rise of new industrial policies, the scope of states' regulatory rights, and the voices of marginalized stakeholders, the workshop invites participants to rethink how international economic law can be reformed to achieve a more just, inclusive, and sustainable global order.

Olabisi Akinkugbe
Associate Professor,
Dalhousie University

Mees Brenninkmeijer
PhD Candidate,
McGill University

Jansen Calamita
Head of CIL,
Associate Professor,
Centre for International Law,
National University of Singapore

Julien Chaisse
Professor,
City University of Hong Kong

Cliff Manjiao Chi
Professor,
University of International
Business and Economics,

Mark Feldman
Interim Dean, Professor of Law,
Peking University School of Transnational Law

Federico Ortino
Professor,
King's College London

Joshua Paine
Senior Lecturer,
University of Bristol

Michelle Ratton Sanchez
Badin
Professor,
Fundação Getulio Vargas
São Paulo Law School

David Schneiderman
Professor of
Law and Political Science,
University of Toronto

Stefanie Schacherer
Assistant Professor,
Singapore Management University

Dini Sejko
Associate Professor,
Sun Yat-sen University

Muthucumaraswamy Sornarajah
Emeritus Professor,
National University of Singapore

Catharine Titi
Associate Professor,
University Paris-
Panthéon-Assas

Jiangyu Wang
Professor,
City University of Hong Kong

Michael Waibel
Professor,
University of Vienna

Yun Zhao
Professor,
The Hong Kong University

Yawen Zheng
Associate Professor,
Jinan University

Weihuan Zhou
Professor,
University of New South Wales

Ying Zhu
Assistant Professor,
The Hong Kong University

Chen Yu
Assistant Professor,
City University of Hong Kong

SPEAKERS & DISCUSSANTS

5 & 6 December 2025

CityUHK, School of Law Seminar Room (LI-6301)/Online